Stage III Installation

Stage III requires an internet connection both for installation and anytime that the simulation is run. To install enter the download link into your browser and click the “Install” button on the web page. You are then prompted for a location to store the installer file. Double click on the installer file to install onto your PC. You do not need to have administrative access to install or update but you may get a Windows Defender warning about the installer. If you get a Defender Smart Screen warning click “More info” at the top of the box and then “Run anyway” in the new box that pops up. The Stage III application has been digitally signed to verify authenticity and the “Windows protected your PC” dialog reflects this by showing the publisher as WholeLogic, Inc.

The first time you run Stage III it will ask for your email address. Just enter your subscribed email and click “Submit Email Address”. The validator will find your email in the database and will send a link to your Email inbox. Click on this link to validate your license. Once you have done this, click the “Retrieve Token” button and you should be good to go. You only have to go through the validation process once.
